Got a chance to pick up a white charcoal Sidewinder...not the JBL 15" (regretably) but looks to be an eminence 15" speaker or maybe CTS; has the aluminum dustcap with black dot....minty; everything works fine.....what should this be worth if I am to make a fair offer on this baby?

BTW, what does everyone think of this amp regarding tone and such? I know it is HEAVY..it will be staying at home.....

You can do a search on ebay for completed acutions and then see what they may have gone for. If you go by the listing in the new Vintage guitar price guide where the more wanted K100 hot color amps are priced at around 400 or so, then that amp without its JBL driver would be in my view not worth more than 250.
