

---

Subject: K200B1 Head

Posted by oren hudson on Tue, 15 Sep 2009 01:35:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'm rehabbing this K200B1 head, Serial #26562 (which I think is from '68) and it's missing 1 (maybe 2) of the plastic feet. Has anyone found a proper replacement? ALSO - did these have 5 feet? Looking at the indentations on the Naugahyde, looks like there were 3 feet on the left side of the head.

---

---

Subject: Re: K200B1 Head

Posted by stevem on Tue, 15 Sep 2009 09:55:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

They only had 4 feet and the closest looking ones I have found are on the bottom of my Peavey 160 combo bass amp.

Peavey makes another close looking one that I have never seen in person and it looks like metal capped rubber type.

Atique Electronics carries a bunch of styles that could be used, so you should check them out.

---

---

Subject: Re: K200B1 Head

Posted by Shaun\_Musings on Sat, 19 Sep 2009 02:06:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Let me know where you find these... I have a poor 2x15 cab without any feet..

Shaun

---

---

Subject: Re: K200B1 Head

Posted by kustomoholic on Sat, 19 Sep 2009 03:51:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You can get the metal feet at about any music store...I'd go for casters if a 2-15 speaker cab tho. I think Peavey make something very close to Kustom Amp feet. Good luck!!!!

Kraig

---