There you go!
Thats why I never throw old stuff like that away as I always find a need for the item two weeks after it was sent to garbage.

Sorry, I made those a couple of years ago when I was on disability.

I would have made more if I could have sold them for more than the cost of the parts.

I no longer have the time since I recovered and am working full time.

If something comes up, I'll let you know.

Thank you my friend, cost will not be an issue and if you ever feel like building another one name your price (within reason)

Get a 4 button pedal and it is simple to build. Do it yourself. shouldn't take much time to build it. Especially if you don't have LED lights for the buttons.
