Hello y'all. New to this site. I have a Kustom Amp blue metalflake tuck & roll with (3- 15's) and the head is a 200B-1. I bought it new back in 1968. It's in great shape - can send pic. I also have the cover for it. Would like to sell, but don't know what a fair price would be to ask. Anyone have any idea's?? Don in Texas.

are you just selling the amp or the whole rig? A blue K200b-1 in mint shape with cover would go for $150-$275 in today's market I would think. In avg. wear run of the mill, would get $100-$200, if you're selling the whole rig with cabinet, it all comes down to condition and what speakers are in the cabinet. Send me some pics and I can get a better estimate in what you have. Keep in mind 3x15's are cool but are big and people nowadays really have issues when they need to move them around! Great rig never the less...
