I have a converted Peavey footswitch to work with the K200A footswitch. 75.00 and postage.
Photo's can be seen on ebay.

Just a question if you don't mind. When you convert one of these, do you have to change the switches or just the cable, or both?

It depends on what you have for cable, type of switches, and of course the plug has to be changed.

I have the 4 wire shielded cable and the plug I need for it. I was wondering if the switches that come in these Peavey foot switches are the correct type. The footswitch that I have is just like the one you have, but also has the little LED lights if that matters.

Thanks for your assistance.
