
Subject: Switch lamps for K250

Posted by Omri KB on Thu, 03 Oct 2013 14:20:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Does anyone know where to find replacement switches for a '72 K250?

The pilot lamp in my polarity switch recently burnt out, hoping to find a new pilot lamp soon....

Subject: Re: Switch lamps for K250

Posted by chicagobill on Thu, 03 Oct 2013 15:45:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The bulb that you need is a number 335 lamp. I get them from Mouser Electronics in Texas. You can often find them on eBay or maybe an electronics store somewhere near you.

Subject: Re: Switch lamps for K250

Posted by braud357 on Fri, 04 Oct 2013 00:57:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Those push-button switches have been obsolete for YEARS ! Other than a used one - you are out of luck. - I installed a illuminated rocker switch in mine that I found at Radio Shack - that was after I did the grounded cord conversion.
