I've got a black tuck-and-roll piggyback K100-1 for sale. In good shape and works great.

I love it to death but as I'm not gigging anymore I figure there's a working musician and/or collector out there who'd be thrilled to have such a cool and classic amp.

Asking $500. Based right in the center of Los Angeles.

FYI, I have also put the amp up for sale on Craigslist in LA but would rather sell to someone here who appreciates these amps for what they are.

If you're interested, email me soon!

P.S. - I do have pics but I'm having trouble uploading images here. Clicking the "add image" icon doesn't seem to do anything (in either Safari or Firefox browsers). Thankfully the amp works better than this interface! I can email pics if you're interested.

The best way to upload pics is from a photo bucket or similar account using the link for each pic.

Thanks. I do have links but when I paste into the message body they just appear as the url text. Clicking "insert an image" still doesn't change things. I'm used to the Wordpress internal dashboard which isn't too dissimilar, but none of the buttons here seem active.

I read the "Help" section about the quick keys but those don't work either. Is the site compatible with Safari 8?

Regardless, happy to email pics to folks.

When doing it the format to paste them in should be `img thenyourlink /img` with the `img` and `/IMG` in `[]` brackets. that is why photo bucket is nice because you just copy the link for posting on a forum and it gives you the proper format.
