Thursday is not only the day we load up on turkey and all the goodies at the table and sit around with our pants undone watching football or sleeping. It's a time to sit back and give thanks for all the wonderful blessing we have in our free country. While most of the world is in turmoil, we are fortunate that things here at home aren't as bad as other parts of the world. We can still walk the streets as free men; we can speak our mind without reprisals; we can even still vote for some moron who will never deliver on his promises (or her's).

Besides all of that, I am thankful for the wonderful friends that I have on this site. Stevem, ChicagoBill, Pleat, Bart and all the rest of the members on this site. It is always a joy to talk with the people on here and learn and share all of our musical experiences. This by far is probably one of the best websites on the internet. The collective knowledge on here is priceless and timeless. The love for Kustom equipment is the bond that binds us all together. This site and our wonderful equipment has rekindle my love for being a musician. A heart filled thank you to you all.

Thanksgiving blessing to you all, and may God smile down upon you.
