Hi everyone. Just purchased my first vintage kustom amp k200 b1 head. I think I got a deal for 75 bucks. just wanted some input on what to look for as far as upkeep and maintenance on it. Should I change the plug to 3 prong. and where can I find parts ect. such as what bulb do I need to get to replace a burned out power light . Thanks in advance .

Welcome to the Kustom club. Yes, its a good idea to change out the power cord. If you go thru and look at previous posting on here you will find out how easy it is to do, just remember to cut the death capacitor since it is not needed once the new line is connected.

The light bulb you need is also listed on previous postings as well.....

Be warned! Kustom equipment is VERY addictive.....you can never just buy one, Pleat will tell you that.
