Hi there new to this site

Living in Thailand as I do, all this good '70's gear never quite got here back in the day.

They were all too busy bombing the shit out of each other in the 1970's

I'm looking to get a collection of the amps I used back in the day back together for home studio use here.

I'm hoping that there is a seller with a 70's Kustom 250 or larger amp and either 2 or 3 15" cab for sale.

The big ask is assistance with the packing sea freight shipping of this rig and also an Acoustic360 / 270 rig which they might also be looking to sell or receive and combine as one shipment for me... happy to pay a reasonable price for the assist

The gear must be in top working and cosmetic order.

BIG ask I know but hopefully, someone out there will have the gear and the time to sell and assist

I have a friend who has a few of the resissue Acoustic 360 amps that where out there a few years ago brand new in the box!

I have played them and they are built better, sound better and have more tonal flexibility then the originals.

Acoustics back in the day where built with what one would call tube amp single rail power supplies so any vintage one you find will need to be gone through!

Unfortunately some of the best working ones are the ones that have been played every few months and not left sitting for years, this also means many of the best playing ones look the worst! Let me know if one of the new 360s interested you and I will see if my friend wants to part with one.
