Hello all.

Are there any photos or a model number of the footswitch that goes to the 1970 150 Combo?

Thanks!

There are a number of 150 combos some have effects and some don't. If yours has the basic reverb and trem, it should use a standard two button switch with a stereo 1/4" plug connector.

As far as I remember, the original ones were round diecast domes, with two standard push on, push off switches.

Thank you for the info.

Mine is the K150-8.

I have one coming for a challenger, I will check to see it that one works on it.

Here's one:

<https://www.ebay.com/itm/253896487687>

I see them on eBay pretty regularly, they usually seem to go for $60-$70. I'd love to have one for my combos, but can't justify spending 1/2 to 1/3 what I paid for the amp on just a footswitch ;)

I see the single-button ones, they go for a LOT less (like $10-$20)

But yeah, functionally, most any 2-button passive switch with a TRS plug should do it.

Sorry, I think that link was wrong. Try this one:

Are you getting the rectangular one that came with the slant-front models, like this:

<https://www.ebay.com/itm/273524403162>

Either one should work with either kind of amp. The round ones are from the earlier plexi-front amps.
