

---

Subject: Missing but not forgotten

Posted by KustomBlues on Tue, 30 Mar 2004 20:55:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi guys! I figured I'd better get on this webboard and tell you guys that I am still alive. I've received some emails from some of you wondering why I've been absent from the board for awhile. I haven't been feeling good, that's all. I've been undergoing heart tests and all that crap... It's nice to know you guys missed me. Thanks!! Deb (aka the Low Frequency Goddess and unofficial Carvin speaker spokeswoman.)::-)

---

---

Subject: Re: Missing but not forgotten

Posted by ET on Wed, 31 Mar 2004 00:06:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

well hey there and how the heck are ya ol woman!!!

Good to see your handle on the board again...most of us are battling aches and pains in at least 14 places on our body so we can sure empathize with you...looks more and more like my kustoms will outlast me..and even though some of them have enjoyed many hours and miles, I think I'm taking better care of them than I do of myself!

I just told BC that my backline company is doing Creedance in May. I'm waiting on the rider details and a contact number for the road manager and yes, i will ask them if they'd like to put any kustoms on stage. Interestingly enough their guitar gear is calling for PV 5150 heads atop marshall cabs and some PV classic 50 stuff as well. they want a pair of Ampeg SVT 8x10 cabs powered by a Crown 5000 amp with my GK1000 as a backup...looks like they really miss that Kustom 400 head for bass since it takes a big ol Crown and a GK to replace one!

They're flying in and not even bringing their axes so they will be playing on my fender strat and a yamaha 5string.. I'm getting more and more requests to provide guitars..I think folks are really getting tired of the airport terrorists that hang around the security screens.. I know I have no love for those people...anyway.. here's hoping I can talk them into using some tuck n roll and I'll sure take some pics if I can pull that off. I've got some D130s I can load into my 2x15 cabs, but the jensons will have to do in my 3x15 sirens.. I'd pull the sirens out and load paper in there for th event..and BC has more cabs in black (the preferred CCR colors thank you very much) in case they are needed...wish John were with them..would sure make the difference. Actually my local producer says that the band was quite difficult to work with when he booked them 2 years back..will have to see if a new approach from Carolina Backline can improve things..heck everyone knows Cosmo is a good guy..must have been the agent that got in the way... anyway..welcome back Deb...Play Loud! ET

---

---

Subject: Re: Missing but not forgotten

Posted by Bill on Wed, 31 Mar 2004 16:28:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hey Deb,

Glad to hear from ya! Just sent ya an email before I got on the board as a matter of fact. Sorry to hear you have been down. I hope you get to feeling better. We all miss ya! Good luck.

Thrill Bill

---

---

Subject: Re: Missing but not forgotten

Posted by axeman on Mon, 12 Apr 2004 21:01:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Glad to hear you are OK. I've been laying low myself lately, though thank God not for health reasons. But I do check in periodically and had missed you. I've been over on FDP a bit lately and sent someone here for help a while back. Was pleased to see he received the help he needed. Matter of fact, I just posted the link again for someone looking for KUSTOM info. My best wishes to you for continued health and happiness. Axeman

---

---

Subject: Re: Missing but not forgotten

Posted by KustomBlues on Sat, 17 Apr 2004 03:33:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Thanks guys! :-) ET, glad to hear you got stuff cookin'!!

---