i posted this in another article but decided to put it here also .my buddy tried to get a good shot of all around on the cabinet and amp .the one tear that you see was done trying to get it pulled out for the pics it is on the back and doesn't show too bad but it is there .there were some smaller scuff that wouldn't show in the pics and i did notice a small cigarette burn on the top of the amp that i had never noticed before...i put in an ear;ier article that it has some small places on the very bottom of the cabinet where it looks as though it was done loading it at some time ...all together it seems to be in really good shape for the age ..the amp plays fine and the speakers are all working fine . click on this link to go to the pics .
